Biographical Sketch

Biographical Sketch:

Susan Redline, M.D., M.P.H., a Professor of Medicine, Epidemiology and Biostatistics, and Pediatrics at Case Western Reserve University (CWRU) School of Medicine, is the Academic Program Director of the CWRU Center for Clinical Investigation and the Director of University Hospitals Sleep Disorders Center. Her research focuses on the epidemiology of sleep disorders across the age spectrum, with a focus on understanding the genetic etiology for sleep apnea and the cardiovascular and neurocognitive consequences of sleep disorders. She directs the Case Sleep and Epidemiology Research Center, which serves as a national Sleep Research interpretation center for a number of large scale NIH funded studies, including the Sleep Heart Health Study, the Hispanic Community Health Study, the Study of Osteoporotic Fractures in Older Women, and the Outcomes of Sleep Disorders in Older Men Study (MrOS). She is a Deputy Editor for the journal Sleep, and is currently a member of the Board of Directors for the Sleep Research Society, and a member of the American Thoracic Society's Scientific Advisory Committee. She has served also as a member of NHLBI's Cardiovascular and Sleep Epidemiology Review group, a member of the Institute of Medicine's Committee on Sleep Medicine, the National Institutes of Health National Center on Sleep Disorders Research Advisory Board, and the National Heart Lung Blood Division's Executive Strategic Planning Committee.

Dr Redline received her B.A. and M.D. degrees from Boston University and Boston University School of Medicine, and a MPH degree from the Harvard School of Public Health. She completed an internship and residency in Internal Medicine and a fellowship in Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine from Cleveland Metropolitan General Hospital (CWRU), and a fellowship in Respiratory Epidemiology from the Channing Laboratory, Brigham and Women's Hospital, Harvard Medical School. She is board certified in Internal Medicine, Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine, and Sleep Medicine.
